Bought this game for me and a friend just because of the Steam trailer. 10\/10. I just saw this on the store page 10 min before bed and thought I'd juuuust give it a lil try.

I think this is the only game ever that got me grinning, it's wild how you can "feel" the Gs without actually moving in your seat.

Highly recommend this to show off VR to your friends!. So I have over about 500 hours on the mobile version. It's clean, crisp, and like a good girlfriend. The P.C. version however, is flawed in ways the mobile isn't. Let's start with the controls. WASD, and mouse. No special jumps unlike the mobile, where you can move diagonally. But in this version, you jump 2 blocks instead of 1. Next, the building. Your reach is the entire screen. You can not build in the dark, unlike the mobile version where you can build in the dark. Let's talk about mining. The new tool scheme and animations are odd and hard to get used to. You are forced to hold to break instead of tapping/clicking in the mobile version. The pickaxe and axes look horrible. Other than that, you can basically do anything.. Wait for the sale goes on sale.. Great game. It's a very good platformer. Not easy at all. I definitely recommend it.. So let me start by saying ive been looking for a DD type game for ages , the last good one i remember was on the ps1

I had realy high hopes for this , it looks great from the videos and on playing for a while i did get the hang of it
The multi play is quite fun and it really dosn't matter if you have the best or worst car and \/or loads of money

The reason im giving the bad review is the solo play aspect of this game, so i got reasonbly good at winning in the actual cars coming 1st regular on most track, however i just couldnt do the novelty stuff with the 3 wheelers in the dd ring , and yes its fun the 1st few times but once youve done it 100 times and cant get 3 knockdowns its time the game gets put away,

It may well be that im just not as good as i think and a little frustrated but i feel the novelty stuff shouldnt halt the game like it does anyhoo thats my review thanks for reading hope this helps :)

It's like a joke. A complete waste of time and money. :(. This game is cute and charming. People come in and order plants, and you have to satisfy the orders by breeding plants with certain traits. You have a limited amount of energy and money to spend each day. For some reason all of the characters are either southern or German. Some of the accents are really corny, but overall I liked the game. Would recommend as a light diversion for adults or an educational game for kids.. After several attemts to play this game on multiple PC's I am convinced that it is broken. The game crashes during the first loading screen every time. It is very unfortunate as to how many games I have purchased on Steam with this same issue. Don't waste your time or money! If you ARE able to get the game to work, I would love to know if it is any good. My suggestion though: Stay away!. Where to start. If you love Jump Scares this is the game for you. From the creepy background noises of \u201cYou will suffer\u201d, distinct \u201ccries of anguish\u201d and an overall just down right creepy vibe, to the evil Jawa like monsters that take great pleasure in driving you insane; this game is scary. I dare you to play this game in the dark with the volume up. The controls are easy to use, and the game is easily addictive. I highly recommend it.. The second Nancy Drew game I'm (re)playing and the third in the series, although I don't think I ever played this one before.

It takes place in San Francisco, but you spend the whole time in a Victorian mansion that a friend of a the Drew family's housekeeper is trying to renovate to turn into a B&B. Something I like about the Nancy Drew games is how they try to incorporate the history and culture of a place. This one features a bit of Wild West\/Gold Rush history (with made-up characters for the game) along with the influence of Chinese immigrants. In fact, get a notebook out if you play this, because a game-long puzzle has you collecting Chinese characters (which the game told me are called hanzi) that you will need to be able to distinguish. My Chinese handwriting is way better than my handwriting with the latin alphabet, but I also spent like 10x the time and effort.. The game itself is a fun town building game with the pre\u00b7quel versions starting a genre of games.

But this version was put on steam by a hobby\/basement modder that has abandoned the game.

This version has many bugs, clitches, missing graphics, missing textures for buildings, modified programing errors etc. It simply isn't a working version.

Is it worth the money? No, its not a working version

Much better working choices on steam available: by Impressions Games \/ Publisher Activision such as,

Caesar\u2122 3
Pharaoh + Cleopatra
Zeus + Poseidon. To quote Rogal Dorn from Emperor's TTS Device.

5/10 It was okay. Actually, not bad. It's not going to be your primary tool for logo design, but if you can catch it on sale and you are interested in graphic design or do it as a trade, you will find this very handy to have in your arsenal of software.

I really like how easy it is to manipulate objects. It's like photoshop, but more watered down to just let you fast-track your logo, offering a lot of helpful tricks to get something set up. Sure it could use more features and tools, but what is here works suprisingly well. It claims to have more than 3300 templates, but in reality it's only 3292. Where are the others?? Just kidding. It's worth it just to have these templates to look through to give you an idea of what you want to do. Pick a template and you can start tweaking it or use it as a base to build off of.

I haven't spent a long time in the program but I was shocked at how useful it seems to be, from the perspective of someone who exclusively uses Photoshop on a daily basis. It won't replace it, but it's a neat little prototyping tool.. Works with NEC signalling, Comes with 2 Liverys (V and III), Fun to drive, looks awesome! Hope Horizons come with this DLC for free with scenarios on the Racetrack too!
